

WHAT DOES IT MEAN? ARE THESE OMENS!

A sad mishap befel a portion of our Locofoco friends of this place on Saturday and yesterday. A good Locofoco, living opposite Mr. Chariton, a Whig Blacksmith, who raised a noble Ash pole a few days since, determined to manifest his devotion to the Hero of a Tennessee fight, and descendant of a Mecklenburg patriot, by annexing to old Hickory a scion of the Whig, by running up both with the lone star, far above the flaunting Whig streamer, with its stars and stripes of our own beloved Union. The pole designed for elevation was not a very tall one, but gave it the perpendicular. Night put an end to operations. Monday morning dawned auspicious. Slowly progressed the "progressives." At length the word was given: "Now, then, my hearties!" Slowly and solemnly ascended Old and Young Hickory. The crisis was at hand, the difficulty was almost over, and the terrified squad began to breathe. At this juncture, the ominous signal of dissolution was heard, and in an instant the pole stalk came thundering to the ground. Old Hickory himself having given out, just below the Annexation. The solid, massive pole had actually been sundered, at a point where danger was not dreamed of. In its fall, the top struck the Ash pole opposite, and broke off, leaving the Ash proudly erect, unscathed and unshorn of its fair proportions. Had its course not been changed, and its force measurably broken, by falling against the Whig pole, several persons must have been dangerously, if not fatally, injured. Their escape, as it was, seemed almost miraculous. At the foot of the Ash, prostrate and forlorn, lay Young Hickory, saying as plainly as Hickory ever said: "Those who trade on borrowed capital ought to break!" What a theme for the pen of some omen-loving Amos! How full of dark and mysterious import the event, from beginning to end! Just imagine how Amos would gloat over and dilate on each minute particular of this attempt at pole raising.—Columbus (Ohio) Journal.

SANDS'S SARSAPARILLA.—This valuable medicine combines the most salutary productions of the most potent simples of the vegetable kingdom. Its unprecedented success in the restoration of health to those who had long pined under the most distressing chronic maladies, has given it an exalted character, furnishing as it does, evidences of its own intrinsic value, and recommending it to the afflicted in terms the afflicted only can know.—It has long been a most important desideratum in the practice of medicine to obtain a remedy similar to this—one that would act on the liver, stomach and bowels, with all the precision and potency of mineral preparations, yet without any of the deleterious effects upon the vital powers of the system.

Prepared and sold, wholesale and retail, by A. B. & D. SANDS, Wholesale Druggists, 79 Fulton st., New York. Price $1 per bottle; 6 bottles for $5.

REMARKABLE OCCURRENCE ON THE INTRODUCTION OF OUR FALL FASHIONS FOR 1844.—Being detained until a very late hour at my store on Friday night last, busied with the preparations for the introduction of the Fall, and deeming this also a favorable occasion for noticing any recurrence of the singular freaks of my animated Hats, described in two recent communications, I concluded to make my abode there on the night in question.

Immediately, as the clock struck one, the master whistle was sounded, and the leap upon the counter of the three leading Hats was simultaneous. The entertainment was opened by the Beaver in the following colloquy:

BEAVER.—Co-mates, and brethren in duance. At our previous meetings upon these boards, we have sung of our life in the woods, wilds and streams; of our loves and labors there, and of our capture and introduction here; let us enjoy the present watching hour, while humans sleep, in chanting our subsequent transformation and treatment. Sister Otter, I shall call on you to hop on that bandbox, and enlighten us with a little of your captive experiences.

OTTER.—I regret that call, brother Beaver, and must, in consequence of over-exertion in our gambols here last night, beg leave to decline. Nutria have more leg, and are less easily fatigued than we; they are famed, too, for their length of tongue; I therefore look over the call to brother Nutria, who is always as ready and as happy at a chit-chat as a flip flap.

NUTRIA.—Much obliged! It would be painful for me to describe the process of my own metamorphosis from my pelt to my present wonderful shape. I should prefer relating the manner in which a compound hat is brought into existence, as gathered by me, when I was fastened upon a block in the plank-room, from the following

JOURNEYMAN'S SONG.

1st Jour.—In mercury the Cony's dip'd,
2d Jour.—Thrice the Muck-nash has been clip'd,
3d Jour.—Foreman cries, 'tis time, 'tis time.

1st Jour.—Fish's hats are all the ton;
To satisfy his endless run,
Round about the cauldron go,
In the downy substance throw.
Fur from back of fieshest hare,
Boil beneath the bubbles there;
Checks of old-coat Beaver shy,
Otter, peppered in the eye,
Spitting Lama throw among,
Nutria of elastic tongue.

All.—Double, double; toil and trouble,
Fire burn, and cauldron bubble.

2d Jour.—Eyesless Mole that under ground,
With his plough-snout worms around;
Breast of crying Shetland Seal,
For Yankee's club too slow of heel;
Kannin wild from Friesland shore,
Muskrat caught in figure four;
Cast them in the seething pot,
Boil them in the gruel hot.

All.—Double, double, toil and trouble,
Fire burn, and cauldron bubble;
Work them now with pins of wood,
Then the felts are firm and good;
Buff them o'er with gum shellac,
That they be stiff, and never crack.

3d Jour.—For a dye-stuff strong and dark,
Extract take of logwood bark,
A sprinkling of the rust of brass,
With green sulphurous coppers;
Add to these materials some
Topaz clear Arabic gum,
Round about the cauldron go,
In the strong ingredients throw;
Stir it with a crooked stick,
Sometimes slow, and sometimes quick;
For a dye of powerful trouble,
Make the hat-broth bold and bubble.

All.—Double, double; toil and trouble,
Fire burn, and cauldron bubble;
Upon a wheel suspended each hat,
And turn it slowly in the vat.
To form and shape the felts furs
Send them to the finishers.

Counter Chorus.—Then hop, hop, hop,
All meet at the hatter's shop;
Once with Possums, Minks and Coons,
We daily dance our rigadoons;
Tho' strip'd and clip'd and color'd jet,
Still can we turn our somerset.

Beaver.—Tell us, Nutria, what occurs
To hats when at the finishers;
Tell us of the trimming there,
Which is done by maidens fair.

Nutria.—Hist! By the itching of my gums,
Something Fishy this way comes;
Let appear what ever's near.

(Whistle, flip flap, and exit.)

Strange! that a mere silent gape, which I could not resist at this moment, could have disturbed them with a suspicion of a listener. O. FISH, Broadway, N. Y., and Brown's Hotel, Washington. sep3-eolw

The Board of Common Council having agreed to in part, and in part disagreed to the amendments of this Board to the bill making appropriations for defraying the general expenses of the Corporation for the year ending June 30th, 1845—

Mr. MAURY moved that this Board adhere to the amendment "to strike out $1,500 as compensation to the members of the two Boards."

And the question being taken by yeas and nays, it was decided in the negative, as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Barclay, Maury, Lenox and Adams—4.
NAYS—Messrs. Magruder, Wilson, Orme, Beck, Brady, Byington, and Thornly—7.

Mr. MAURY then moved to adhere to the amendment which provides that the entire compensation to each member shall not exceed $40; which was decided in the negative, as follows:

So the amendments disagreed to by the Board of Common Council were re-referred from.

On motion of Mr. WILSON, the Board resumed the consideration of the bill regulating the weight and quality of bread; and it was then, on motion, ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. MAURY, from the Committee on Improvements, reported without amendment the bill supplementary to the act for the improvement of L street north from 7th to 10th street west, and recommended its indefinite postponement.
